Ellis Albert "Al" Swaengen (1845–1904) was a notorious figure of Deadwood's early days. Arriving during the Black Hills Gold Rush, he opened the Gem Theatre in 1877, a saloon and brothel that became the town's most infamous establishment. Known for his ruthless methods and sharp business sense, Swaengen thrived until the Gem was destroyed by fire in 1899. He later left Deadwood penniless and died under mysterious circumstances in Denver in 1904, leaving behind a lasting legend of the Wild West.
